SPOTLIGHT ON...

EMBRACING LIFE AS YOU AGE

Greenup County was one of 11 pilot counties that participated in the Mental Healthiness Aging Initiative (MHAI), an educational intervention program designed to increase community knowledge about mental health aging and mental health resources. Seventeen Greenup County leaders were among 200 people who participated in 14 forums held throughout the pilot area, which led to the development of materials used in the program. In addition, the Family and Consumer Sciences (FCS) agent in Greenup facilitated a variety of MHAI efforts, including providing instruction to 260 people, reaching 600 people with information about health fairs and community events, and distributing 400 lesson materials, brochures and fact sheets. MHAI was developed from a successful Alzheimer education program initiated by the District 1 FCS agents.¹
