SPOTLIGHT ON...

PROMOTING HEALTHY HOMES AND COMMUNITIES

Due to LaRue County's low literacy rates and the need for quality early childhood education, the Family and Consumer Sciences agent helped establish the LaRue County Early Childhood Council. The council, which focuses on pre-kindergarten children and their caregivers, provides free or low-cost training, expertise and visibility that have greatly enhanced early care in the county. For example, all participating child care centers and in-home caregivers have reported a noticeable improvement in learning skills since they began using council-provided educational materials. The increased visibility of this program has led to increasing numbers of child care providers participating in the scholars program, with four centers having staff who are using the state's scholarship funds for child care providers. Five providers are current participants in the STARS quality rating system.¹
