SPOTLIGHT ON...

MAKING BENEFICIAL LIFESTYLE CHOICES

Many Americans have experienced serious problems related to their health including being overweight and/or developing chronic diseases. Additionally, many have experienced financial difficulties such as high debt and low savings. Limited resource families (past Christmas Project recipients) were invited to participate in the six week self-discovery education, skill building program "Small Steps to Health and Wealth". The program included developing an exercise program, keeping daily food intake records, developing a financial budget, and keeping records of money spent. Twenty-one families completed the Small Steps to Health and Wealth Series. The final evaluation showed: Ninety percent developed a budget, 95% prepared foods from workshop for family members, 60% kept track of food intake regularly, 75% kept written records of money spent, and 50% increased exercise since attending the program.¹

OUR COMMUNITY
