MAKING BENEFICIAL LIFESTYLE CHOICES

osing to Win" was a 10-week weight loss competition conducted by the Todd County Extension agent for Family and Consumer Sciences and a health department nurse, with support from the Coalition for a Healthy Todd County. The program included weekly weigh-ins and educational sessions that encouraged healthy weight loss and exercise. Prizes were awarded to the individual and four-person team that lost the largest percentage of body weight. Sixty people began and 37 completed the program, losing a total of 940 pounds and 114.25 inches from their waist. As a result, 97 percent of participants surveyed reported they were more effective in managing their weight, 84 percent said moderate physical activity was part of their daily routine, and 88 percent said they consumed five to nine vegetables and fruits daily.<sup>1</sup>
