SPOTLIGHT ON...

MAKING BENEFICIAL LIFESTYLE CHOICES

According to the Kentucky Institute of Medicine, 2007, Wolfe County ranks 120th out of 120 counties for being the unhealthiest in the state. To combat the overweight problem and help residents become more physical activity, Wolfe County Extension partnered with the local health department and diabetes coalition to conduct the "Weight, The Reality Series." Fifty-one participants committed to attending the program in five locations for 10 weeks. Teams at each location competed with other teams to see which one could lose the most weight. Each week, participants weighed in, participated in and educational program and finished with a walk. The 41 people who completed the program lost a combine 240 pounds, or an average of 4.57 pounds per person. One team of 10 members lost 71 pounds total.¹
