SPOTLIGHT ON ...

ACCESSING NUTRITIOUS FOODS

This year, Barren County Cooperative Extension staff facilitated a winter market for local producers of meat, eggs, cheese, produce, honey, and handmade products. The 15-vendor market gave consumers the opportunity to purchase local items in the off-season. Vendors and patrons were surveyed at season's end. The surveys indicated that 100% of vendors made money, with total market sales averaging $2,000 each session. Nearly half reported that winter income was on par with weekly summer sales. Surveys showed that 100% of patrons felt the market was a worthy project and would support it in the future. They particularly appreciated Extension's role in providing an outlet when local items aren't easily accessible.
