SPOTLIGHT ON ...

ACCESSING NUTRITIOUS FOODS

According to The National Gardening Association, 48% of consumers garden to ensure access to a safe food supply. To offer families information on nutrition and food safety, Boyle County Family and Consumer Sciences agent offered a series of food preservation classes to Boyle, Lincoln, and Hardin counties. The agent taught freezing, boiling-water canning methods, and pickling. Participants went through the entire process of freezing or canning and left with a finished product. Before the class, 40% had "poor" knowledge and 40% had "fair" knowledge of food preservation. After, 100% had "excellent" knowledge of canning and freezing. 90% of participants believe that learning this skill would allow them to save money; 100% of participants believe it will save time.
