SPOTLIGHT ON ...

MAKING HEALTHY LIFESTYLE CHOICES

The growing child obesity rate indicates that emphasizing healthy food choices is critical for the health of our youth. To address this need the Hardin County's Family and Consumer Sciences Extension Staff offered "SuperStar Chef Goes to Farmers Market Camp". This four-day camp, taught 21 children, ages 9 to 12, basic knife skills, food selection, hands-on cooking, and local food sources. The campers went to the local farmers market, where a scavenger hunt got them talking to farmers and vendors. When the kids were asked what they will use after camp, 42% said "knife skills," while 25% said "recipes." Vendors at the market said it was great to see kids eager to learn and try fruits and vegetables.
