SPOTLIGHT ON ...

MAKING HEALTHY LIFESTYLE CHOICES

According to Kentucky by the Numbers, 14.2% of Leslie County residents are age 65 or over. As people age, proper nutrition, physical activity, and other health problems become a challenge. To address these issues, the Family and Consumer Sciences Agent conducts monthly nutrition lessons at three senior citizens centers and one community center. A total of 55 seniors from all sites attend lessons which focus on a variety of topics including making nutritious food choices, food safety, budgeting grocery funds, controlling cholesterol, and managing diabetes. Classes include taste testing recipes that are low cost and nutritious. 100% of the senior citizens who attend report they have gained valuable knowledge and, as a result, have improved nutrition.
