SPOTLIGHT ON ...

SECURING FINANCIAL STABILITY

Economic stress on family budgets has resulted in a need for many families to stretch income in new and creative ways. Using information from "Small Steps to Health and Wealth," Wayne County Extension offered classes to address financial strain on families and individuals. Classes covered budgeting, "needs" versus "wants," cooking, couponing, and green cleaning products. Many were amazed at the savings in making laundry detergent, fabric softener, and cleaners. Family and Consumer Sciences Agent, FCS Assistant and Nutrition Assistants collaborated to teach a local cooking school. Crockpot, food preservation, and food budgeting classes were among the classes taught. Families commented that the information helped them to stretch their food dollars and reduce unnecessary expenses.
