SPOTLIGHT ON ...

KIDS COOKING CAMP

Kids' Cooking Camp — a collaborative effort between the Oldham County Cooperative Extension Service and the Oldham County Health Department — was established to address the growing concern for childhood obesity. Kids' Cooking Camp addressed the importance of following the "MyPlate Food Guide" recommendations to promote healthy eating habits and more physical activities for playtime. The goal of the camp is to teach young people healthy habits to share with their family members. Each day, the 25 participants prepared different courses for a celebration meal on the fourth day. Reading and following recipe directions was stressed with each daily lesson. Open response surveys revealed that 95 percent of participants realize the importance of following a recipe and they could identify the healthy choices of the "MyPlate Food Guide".
