HEALTHY EATING GUIDELINES

The obesity rate in Kentucky increased 90 percent over the last 15 years, and consumption of unhealthy foods is a contributing factor. The Christian County Extension Service responded by developing a farmers market buyers' guide that provides healthy eating tips and features the "Plate It Up! Kentucky Proud" program. Extension staff prepare weekly healthy recipes and distribute samples at the Downtown Hopkinsville Farmers Market to encourage a healthier lifestyle and the purchase of locally grown commodities. In the 2012 market season, over 1,000 buyers' guides were distributed and 500 people tasted fresh produce prepared from "Plate It Up!" recipes. Of those surveyed, 95 percent indicated the food samples probably or definitely contributed to their plan to try the recipe at home.
