SPOTLIGHT ON ...

CONNECTING FARMS TO LOCAL MARKETS

As demand for locally grown food has grown, so has the need for farmers to learn about available markets. The “Connecting Farms to Local Markets” workshop included 138 participants; 56 farmers, 30 wholesale buyers, 24 school food service and other institutional representatives, and government representatives. Evaluations indicated 100% increased knowledge of potential markets for their products. All school food service directors who attended expressed interest in buying local food, and 80% connected with a local food producer. Among hospitality industry representatives, 8% indicated interest in purchasing locally grown products and 86% connected with a buyer.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family’s largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
