SPOTLIGHT ON ...

PARENTING PROGRAMS

To meet a recognized need, the Family Resource/ Youth Service Center coordinator and Calloway Family and Consumer Sciences Extension agent collaborated to provide a six-session parenting program for local parents. Participants learned about proper nutrition and child-rearing techniques that develop children's cooperation, courage, responsibility, and self-esteem. Participants received certificates upon completion. Of the 70 participants, 93% completed the program. All agreed that the program made them more confident in their parenting skills. Some 90% indicated that they learned how to use logical consequences for misbehavior and that they now use preventive and positive discipline techniques.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
