SPOTLIGHT ON ...

NOURISH YOUR BONES

The Campbell County Family and Consumer Sciences agent taught the lesson, "Nourish Your Bones and Joints" to eight northern Kentucky counties. The 112 participants learned about different bone and joint diseases and how to prevent and manage them. They were also provided healthy recipes for their bones and joints. Written evaluations conducted at the end of the program showed that all of the participants learned something new about bones and joints. Written evaluations administered three months after the program showed that as a result of the program 76% of the participants increased their intake of vegetables, 83% increased their intake of fruits, and 44% were getting 30 minutes of physical activity five to seven days per week.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
