SPOTLIGHT ON ...

HEALTH ROCKS

In 2012 and 2013 the Edmonson County Extension Office participated in the Health Rocks grant program through Kentucky State University. Local staff completed the required training and shared the program with 3rd-grade and 4th-grade classes in both elementary schools in the county. A total of 182 children participated in 2012 and 273 participated in 2013. Written evaluations show that more than 95% thought the program was beneficial, 93% intended to get more exercise because of the program, 97% realized that they should avoid illegal drugs, and more than 90% felt better able to deal with bullying. Thanks to the Health Rocks grant program, $4,004 was split between the participating schools and the 4-H program.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
