SPOTLIGHT ON ...

GREEN CLEANING

According to University of Kentucky extension specialists, do-it-yourself green cleaning products are increasing in popularity due to their effectiveness, affordability, environmental impact, and economic benefits. The Grayson County Cooperative Extension Office offered programming using the "Green Cleaning" curriculum and supporting publications. Three programs were implemented in the county and a total of 50 individuals attended. Participants said that they would use the recipe cards, specifically recipes for the drain cleaner, disinfectant spray, and the all-purpose cleaner. One participant initially expressed concern over the expense and time involved in making the cleaning products. After attending the program, however, she plans to try the products.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
