SPOTLIGHT ON ...

COOKING SMART

In Greenup County, 32% of adults and 17% of children are obese. Many residents do not know how to provide and prepare healthy foods. The Greenup County Extension Service offered "Cooking Smart," a six-week series focused on providing a healthy choice for everyday meals. As a result of the series, all 25 participants said they had learned how to read a food label and choose recipes for their families. One participant, who was seen in the grocery store using materials provided during the classes, said, "I never knew I could buy these items in our grocery store. It has made meal planning a part of my routine."

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
