WALKING CHALLENGE

According to the health indicators for Jackson County, 36.7% of adults reported they are physically inactive and 33.4% are obese. Both can contribute to overall poor health. To combat inactivity, the Jackson County Extension Office sponsored a seven-week walking challenge, as well as programs that encouraged residents to increase physical activity and adopt healthier lifestyle choices. Among the program's results: 87% of the participants completed the walking challenge, 91% met personal goals set at the beginning of the challenge, 100% were more aware of how much they were moving daily, 100% felt better about themselves after participating in the program, and 100% made at least one healthy lifestyle change because of the program.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
