SPOTLIGHT ON ...

CLEANING ON A SHOESTRING

Cleaning on a Shoestring was presented to 25 residents at St. Catherine's Court and 20 participants at Dosker Manor, apartment living spaces governed by the Metro Louisville Housing Authority. Each participant received handouts to help with home cleaning and was shown how to use a low-cost home cleaning solution. Evaluations conducted at the end of the program found that 40 participants plan to change their cleaning habits. All 45 participants realized that cleaning products did not have to cost more than they can afford. Some now recognize the cleaning solutions that should not be mixed. All participants said they plan to attend other programs offered by Jefferson County Cooperative Extension.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
