SPOTLIGHT ON ...

INSECTS IN THE HOME

The Kenton County Cooperative Extension Office presented "Focus on the Home: Managing Insects and Spiders in the Home" as leader training for 71 Northern Kentucky Area extension homemakers in seven counties. Each extension homemaker presented the program to their Extension Homemaker Club, potentially reaching over 900 members. The post-program survey found: 30% improved sanitation practices to eliminate/prevent pests; 22% sealed cracks/crevices to prevent pests; three detected plumbing issues after completing the self-inspection of their home; 29 participants reported a decrease in the number of insects/pests in their home; and 100% indicated they use fewer insecticides as a result of the program.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
