SPOTLIGHT ON ...

SECURING FINANCIAL STABILITY

To help those feeling the hardships of recent economic downturns, Robertson County Extension shared quarterly "Managing in Tough Times" newsletters with over 300 local families the past two years. The FCS agent's radio program covered many financial management topics, including how to save money on housing and home environment. Robertson County students participated in a piggy bank design contest and learned about financial planning. Fifth-graders made posters to demonstrate how to compare prices to find the best deal. Several parents attended a financial workshop taught by the FCS agent. Participants in every financial education event reported knowledge gained. Workshop attendees reported they used more coupons, which resulted in considerable savings for their families.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
