SPOTLIGHT ON ...

BASIC HOME REPAIRS

The Wolfe County FCS Advisory Council identified the need to help citizens better manage their budgets by doing their own basic home repairs. As a result, the FCS agent partnered with the local rural electric cooperative to offer programs to teach participants how to use basic tools to perform simple home repairs, how certain repairs can conserve energy, and to share tips on hiring a dependable contractor. Several program participants shared what they learned with others and called the electric company to set up a home energy audit. Extension continues to get calls from others requesting information on simple home repairs.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
