SPOTLIGHT ON ...

HOME GARDEN PRODUCE

Given the local food movement and renewed interest in home gardening and home food preservation, the Woodford County Extension staff developed and implemented a six-session series called "Grow a Garden, Prepare the Produce." The program highlighted a different fruit or vegetable at each session. Part of the session was led by the horticulture agent and included information about growing produce. The second half of each session, led by the FCS agent, included information and demonstrations about harvesting, preparing, and preserving the produce. The program's goal was to increase the participants' knowledge about growing their own food and the health benefits of fruit and vegetable consumption.

Housing has long been recognized as a basic human need. Yet, because housing is often a family's largest expense and largest debt, it can be a stumbling block for many. Safe, lower-cost housing options are often limited for struggling families, and this can lead them into crisis. Family and Consumer Sciences Extension helps people improve home safety, lessen their environmental footprint, and strengthen financial stability. It also helps communities promote healthy lifestyles throughout the lifespan by supporting strong family home environments. Please tell us ways you think we can do more.
