A HEALTHIER KENTUCKY
Parenting skills for family success

By using effective parenting skills, parents help children become responsible, caring adults and productive members of society. However, limited resources can make it hard for parents to get formal parenting training. In Kentucky, Family and Consumer Sciences (FCS) Extension through the University of Kentucky provides parenting skills programs. As these programs strengthen families, they also empower our communities. Our goal is to provide educational opportunities to help every family succeed.

Families face many challenges, including poverty, readying children for their school careers, and supporting children who are being harassed or bullied. Some parents also are unable to raise their children and must turn to relatives for help. No matter the challenge, FCS helps families succeed.

It takes a village

A growing number of children are being raised by other relatives, especially grandparents. The American Community Survey (ACS) estimates that between 2012 and 2016 in Russell County, 389 (+/- 126) grandparents lived with and were responsible for their grandchildren, and 367 (+/-120) grandchildren were being raised by their grandparents. For 175 (+/- 97) of those grandchildren, there was no parent present. Of all children living in all households, 191 (+/-109) were stepchildren, 111 (+/- 76) were adopted children, and 87 (+/- 55) children were living with other relatives.

The safety of our children

For families, child safety is a priority that can be jeopardized in many ways. In Russell County in 2017, 35.9% (27.4%-44.4%) of all families with school-aged children lived below poverty, and there were 108 child victims of substantiated abuse or neglect in 2016. In the schools, there were 51 reported incidences of harassment, which included bullying, in the 2016-2017 school year for all school districts in Russell County.

Kindergarten readiness

The first five years of life are vital in a child’s development and success in life. In 2017, Russell County had an estimated 1,099 children ages 5 and under. Of those children, 127 were enrolled as preschoolers.
