SPOTLIGHT: BATH COUNTY

Dad's Night Out

In 2016, an estimated 13 percent of children in Kentucky had an incarcerated parent, nearly double the national average. More than half of those parents were men. Bath County's FCS Extension agent partnered with Gateway Health, the Family and Youth Resource Center directors at Bath County Schools, and Bath County Memorial Library to host Dad's Night Out. This program, while primarily for dads, allowed all caregivers a night out with their youth. Participants prepared a nutritious meal together, discovered activities that concentrate on MyPlate nutrition, and discussed daily nutrition requirements for each age group. Caregivers were also taught how to teach finances to their youth. As a result of the program, 60 percent of participants incorporated daily reading time, 50 percent follow MyPlate for dinner suggestions, and 30 percent of students and parents have started a new savings goal.

BATH COUNTY'S EXTENSION PROGRAMMING COMMUNITY IMPACT
