SPOTLIGHT: LAWRENCE COUNTY

Technology in Quilting for a Cause

Lawrence County's FCS Extension agent developed the program called Sewing and Quilting Technology Workshop. With the fast changes in quilting technology that make things easier, it is important to keep those who sew and quilt up to date on changes and empower them to develop their skills. The workshop consisted of a presentation and demonstrations about new technology in sewing. Participants were able to use a computer to program the machine to sew or quilt and then were able to upload their design to the machine, thread it using the digital tools, and then make their design. All of the participants said that this was the first time they had used a computer to implement any type of quilting and/or sewing.
