SPOTLIGHT ON ...

MAKING HEALTHY LIFESTYLE CHOICES

Oldham County is considered one of the healthiest counties in Kentucky, but obesity in children and adults is increasing. Because of that rise, the Oldham County Family and Consumer Sciences Agent collaborated with the health department and community partners to provide classes and information on healthy eating and cooking. "Kids Cooking Camp" was a popular series; with 25 students attending a weeklong summer class in which they planned and prepared healthy meals. Food safety, serving sizes, cooking terms, and proper use of equipment were demonstrated and practiced. The series also addressed the importance of physical activity. Other weight-control programs offered included "Small Steps to Health and Wealth," "Taking Control of Your Diabetes," and "Happy, Healthy Seniors."
